Such As Us

Such As Us is a socially conscious alternative rock group from New York. They have a sound reminiscent of The Mamas & The Papas but with a modern twist. They address important issues—justice, peace, love, the environment—and are unapologetic activists in New York Friends of Clearwater. Male and female voices harmonize about the present and future with a retro vibe.

Filthy Rotten System

Filthy Rotten System is an activist protest/rock band. Their repertoire ranges from The Band and Bruce Springsteen to Woody Guthrie and Pete Seeger. They also do some powerful original songs of social comment, e.g., "Let My People Stay." They came out of the Catholic Worker, where some of them live and they gather for rehearsals. Their most common venues are vigils, marches, and rallies in support of undocumented immigrants, against war, and promoting human rights.

Professor Louie

Professor Louie has played more benefits, rallies, fund-raisers, block parties and street fairs than he or anyone else can remember. He has been spouting poetries about class warfare and systemic racism since he learned to speak. His mother, Rose, said, "That boy never stops."

Jody Kolodzey

This is a rare live performance by poet Jody Kolodzey, whose fan base includes the late Studs Terkel. She currently resides in the land of mice and snow, where she writes with a fountain pen.

Ben Grosscup

Ben Grosscup is executive director of the People's Music Network for Songs of Freedom and Struggle, a diverse community of singers, artists, and activists that cultivates music and cultural work as catalysts for a just and peaceful world. PMN hosts regular online song swaps and hybrid musical collaborations, involving artists worldwide. Ben sings about the ideas and values of the revolutionary social movements he's part of. Drawing upon activist folk singing traditions, he brings new songs to the rallies, strikes, picket lines, and virtual events where they're most relevant. He leads purposeful group singing that raises political consciousness. youtube.com/c/BenGrosscup
