Until further notice, the Peoples' Voice Cafe will require that all staff, performers, and audience members each present proof of being fully vaccinated with an approved Covid-19 vaccine upon entering. In addition, all persons are required to wear face masks that cover the nose and mouth while inside the Peoples' Voice Cafe, except when performing. Until they are eligible to be vaccinated, we are unable to admit children under 12 years old to our shows. We are currently suspending food and drink sales for safety reasons. The number of people in our performance space will be limited to 70 to allow for distancing of chairs, so come early! Please check the website for any updates.

Joshua Garcia

Joshua Garcia is a folksinger-songwriter whose music and writing style draw from the influences of his musical heroes Woody Guthrie, Bob Dylan, and Johnny Cash. He sings in a strong, confident baritone that harks back to the more purposeful voices of earlier folk, and his guitar picking is fluent in several bluesy styles. Born and raised in Los Angeles, Joshua now resides in Astoria, Queens. soundcloud.com/joshuagarciamusic

Lydia Adams Davis with Barry Kornhauser

Lydia's repertoire includes traditional American folk music, American Songbook standards, fresh interpretations of Hudson River/Pete Seeger songs, and poignant, often funny, originals, including songs about historical women. She accompanies herself on a variety of instruments including guitar, ukulele, and piano. Lydia has recorded five albums for adults and children. She invites you to sing along on "Lake Erie" and other folk music home to your heart."—Peter Yarrow. • lydiaadamsdavis.com • Barry Kornhauser is a composer, arranger, teacher and multi-instrumentalist (cello, guitar, bass guitar, and mandola) in a wide variety of musical environments. He has performed on stages ranging from Merkin Hall and NJPAC to the Bronx Zoo and Hippo Playground; from Saint John the Divine and Trinity Church to Sing Sing Prison and Creedmoor. Barry was a founding member of Peoples' Voice Cafe and has performed there more than a few times.

Dilson Hernandez

Dilson is a genre-merging artist from the Bronx. His talents include creative writing, playing various instruments, spoken-word poetry, singing, audio engineering, and beat-making. Dilson wishes to change the world with his art and community work, striving for a more progressive and creative future. His adventures towards that end include music workshops in public schools, advocating in courtrooms for incarcerated youth, teaching English in Haiti, and building dorms for children in rural India.

Ben Grosscup

Ben's powerful voice and energetic guitar style inspire action toward a freer society. His songs pull at your heart and provoke laughter and critical conversation, making no apology for a biting critique of the social order. He sings at concerts, rallies, and picket lines, and works with peace and social justice organizers to raise political consciousness and help people sing together for a common purpose. Based in Greenfield, MA, Ben serves as Executive Director of People's Music Network (peoplesmusic.org), a diverse community of singers, artists, activists and allies that cultivates music and cultural work as catalysts for a just and peaceful world.

The Ranzo Boys

Lafayette Matthews (he/him) and Jules Peiperl (they/them) explore the history of queerness in traditional sailing as reflected in traditional songs—hidden in plain sight—as well as in the modern Tall Ships world. They have performed at Chantey Sings at the South Street Seaport Museum, the Portsmouth Maritime Folk Festival, and TradMad. As queer/trans musicians, they are dedicated to honoring the tradition of the songs they sing while making the folk community a more inclusive and welcoming space for all people.

Twa Corbies

Twa Corbies is a duo of Alison Kelley (of the Johnson Girls, New York Packet, Ida Red, and NexTradition) and Anayis "AJ" Wright (Mystic Seaport, Norumbega Harmony). They embrace musical traditions spanning from the 12th century up to Gilbert and Sullivan. You'll find grim stories, resilient women, hysterical happenings, and darkly comic tales. They frequently sing a capella, sometimes accompanied by Anayis on concertina or Alison on the banjo. Dulcimers, guitars, banjoleles, dumbeks, vielle, and cello have been known to pop up as well. When not performing, they spend their time serenading an assortment of dogs and garden vegetables.

Anne Price

New York City native Anne Price has often been compared to Joan Baez. Anne began performing when she was a student at Hunter College in the Bronx in the 1960s, and since then she has appeared at venues as close as the Peoples' Voice Cafe in New York City and as far away as the 15th-century Black Swan Public House in York, England. Her repertoire includes everything from traditional folk ballads to country songs, songs of the sea, cowboy songs, songs about work and the labor movement, and love songs. She sings many songs from folk-based songwriters such as Jean Ritchie, Peggy Seeger, Woody Guthrie, and Si Kahn, and she writes a few fine songs of her own. Her voice is strong, rich, and expressive.

Joel Landy

Known for his energetic stage performances, witty parodies and insightful lyrics, Joel Landy is the host of Songs of Freedom Television, an award-winning cable program celebrating the dignity of human struggle. Joel is a Peoples' Voice Cafe volunteer and fan favorite. A public school teacher during the day, Joel continues to get into good trouble organizing and appearing at rallies and demonstrations in addition to playing at coffeehouses and clubs. "He's a real live wire!"—Pete Seeger

Reggie Harris & Greg Greenway: Deeper Than the Skin

Born three days apart, ancestry flowing through the same portal of History, Richmond, VA, Reggie Harris and Greg Greenway are on a pilgrimage together—one that began three decades ago. The racial divisions that are the reality of America started them in two different worlds, but the amazing bonds of music, respect, and shared vision have brought them together as friends and colleagues. The musical and spiritual blooming of this history has become Deeper Than The Skin, the telling of their stories through words and music. It is a great American story, informative, inspiring, and uplifting all at once.

Pat Victor

Pat Victor's convoluted path to roots music—passing through rock, heavy metal and jazz on a variety of instruments, and living abroad for much of his youth—has shaped his panoramic approach to the blues and gospel-influenced folk music he now writes and sings. His skills as harmonizer, improviser and accompanist have made him a sought-after collaborator and session musician. Pat's newest album is Counterpoise, a collaboration with jazz vocalist Deborah Latz. His most recent solo album is This Is Absolutely Real: Visions and Versions of Phil Ochs, which was nominated for Best Tribute Album by The Independent Music Awards.
